

Maggie

Maggie is a five-year old who would visit her grandmother's house to play, eat cookies and break the rules.

She was unable, however, to share with her parents that her grandmother and aunt were sexually assaulting her and rewarding her with treats to keep her silent. Maggie's parents could not figure out why her behavior became defiant and violent. The Kindergarten referred her family to For All Seasons. An advocate helped them get the legal help they needed, and a trauma-certified therapist helped Maggie and her family through the crisis. Maggie is doing well now. Her family still attends therapy each week and has learned how to keep her safe and is continuing to cope with the aftermath of this family crisis.
